

Editor's Note

Welcome to this special coverage of Missions Conference 2009! We hope that you will be inspired and see God's heart for the lost world around you. This year's conference was a rich blessing and well attended. We had crowds of up to 1700 people. What a blessing to see so many people interested in missions in these last days! We were honored to have two missionaries, Daniel and Samuel Kenaston, as well as all of the former GES teachers at the Conference. Daniel preached the final message at Mission's Conference. He inspired us with the Cry of Heaven, a victorious cry of praise to God from people of every tribe, nation, and kindred. The GES teachers also provided an important highlight as they discussed the opportunities they had in the last two years.

Besides the rich sermons we heard, each of the six booths also presented their messages. The six presentations featured:

- (a) Ministering to Muslims,
- (b) Ministering to Germanic people (Amish, Old Colony Mennonite, Hutterite, etc),
- (c) Reaching the children in our cities,
- (d) Teaching English in foreign countries,
- (f) The role of the church in missions today,
- (g) The SENT I and SENT II programs.

In this issue we have featured each of the booths and their messages.

The entire Missions Conference was a rich time of teaching and inspiration. All the sermons have been recorded and are available. We encourage you to listen to the messages preached at the Conference. (See info in the sidebar on page 13 or visit www.charityministries.org.)

We welcome your input and prayers as we strive to publish an inspirational newsletter that glorifies God in every way. One of our goals is to emphasize not only foreign missions, but also missions at home. We would love to hear how you are reaching out with the love of Christ to your neighbors.

If you would like to submit a missions article, please send it to our office for review.

For Christ's sake,
Tim Miller
